BOLIVIA, LAND OF LIVING CULTURES

16 days / 15 nights

Bolivia is not a country you simply visit—it is a country you experience, slowly and deeply, through its people, landscapes, and traditions that remain vibrantly alive. This private journey across Bolivia reveals a land where ancient cultures are not confined to museums or history books, but continue to shape everyday life, rituals, celebrations, and beliefs.

From the tropical lowlands of Santa Cruz to the serene white architecture of Sucre, Bolivia's constitutional capital, the journey introduces a fascinating cultural mosaic. Indigenous heritage, colonial legacy, and modern life coexist naturally, offering travelers a rare sense of authenticity. In the valleys of Samaipata and the lush forests of Amboró National Park, nature itself becomes part of the cultural story, where pre-Inca civilizations once carved sacred sites into stone and biodiversity thrives in remarkable harmony.

The journey continues through the historic mining city of Potosí, once one of the richest cities on Earth, where silver shaped empires and Andean traditions endured beneath colonial grandeur. Further south, the landscape transforms dramatically as travelers reach the legendary Salar de Uyuni, a vast white horizon that feels otherworldly. Here, indigenous communities maintain ancestral customs, and nights beneath endless skies feel timeless. Volcanoes, flamingo-filled lagoons, surreal deserts, and high-altitude sanctuaries reveal Bolivia's raw and powerful natural beauty.

In Oruro, Bolivia's folkloric heart, living culture reaches its most expressive form. Music, dance, devotion, and craftsmanship come together in traditions passed down through generations. The city's spiritual connection to the Virgen del Socavón reflects a profound blend of Andean beliefs and Catholic faith—an expression of identity that defines the Bolivian soul.

The journey culminates in La Paz, one of the world's highest capitals, where indigenous markets, colonial streets, and modern cable cars form a striking urban tapestry. From here, travelers reach Lake Titicaca, the sacred lake of the Andes, and the mythical Isla del Sol, birthplace of the Inca civilization. Walking ancient paths, sharing meals with local communities, and watching the sun set over the lake offers a moment of deep connection and reflection.

Bolivia, Land of Living Cultures is more than a tour—it is a carefully curated private experience that invites travelers to witness traditions that endure, landscapes that inspire awe, and a culture that lives, breathes, and welcomes those who journey with curiosity and respect.*

DAY 13 (Tuesday) LA PAZ

After breakfast, enjoy a guided exploration of La Paz, a city unlike any other in the Andes, dramatically set within a deep canyon and surrounded by snowcapped peaks. More than a capital, La Paz is a living crossroads where ancient indigenous traditions and contemporary urban life blend seamlessly. The tour begins in the historic center, visiting colonial landmarks before immersing ourselves in the traditional markets, where daily life unfolds in vivid color. Here you will encounter many Aymara people, one of the strongest and most resilient indigenous cultures in South America, whose roots in the Andean highlands stretch back thousands of years, long before the Inca Empire. Many of the vendors you meet are part of a fascinating social transformation. Originally from rural Aymara communities, generations migrated to the city in search of opportunity, gradually becoming urban citizens known locally as “cholos”—a term that today reflects cultural pride rather than social status. Their traditional clothing, customs, language, and worldview coexist naturally with modern city life, creating a powerful expression of Bolivia’s living identity. The tour continues to the Valley of the Moon, a surreal landscape of eroded limestone formations that feels almost extraterrestrial. Later, experience La Paz from above using the innovative cable car system (Mi Teleférico). Gliding silently over neighborhoods and hillsides offers breathtaking views and a unique perspective on how geography and culture shape this extraordinary city. The afternoon is free for personal exploration or relaxation. (B)

At the Strait of Tiquina, vehicles and passengers cross the narrow channel by local ferry, a unique experience and an important link between the lake’s two basins. Continuing to Copacabana, Bolivia’s main pilgrimage town, we visit the Basilica of the Virgin of Copacabana, home to the revered wooden statue known as La Mamita. From here, we board a boat to the legendary Isla del Sol, considered the birthplace of the Inca civilization. We visit the Inca ruins of Pillokaina Palace, followed by a traditional ajtapi lunch, a communal Andean picnic. Check-in at a family-run lodge. In the afternoon, we walk through Yumani village, ascending ancient stone steps to viewpoints offering unforgettable sunset views over Lake Titicaca. Overnight on the island. (B) (D)

DAY 15 (Thursday) SUN ISLAND – LA PAZ

After breakfast at the lodge, enjoy a relaxed morning on Isla del Sol, a place where time seems to move at a different rhythm. The island is home to Aymara communities, descendants of one of the most ancient living cultures in the Andes. Long before the rise of the Inca civilization, the Aymaras developed sophisticated agricultural systems, spiritual beliefs, and a deep respect for Pachamama (Mother Earth), values that continue to guide daily life today. Walking along the island’s stone paths and agricultural terraces offers insight into a way of life rooted in community, balance, and harmony with nature. The lake, mountains, and sky form a sacred landscape that has inspired myths and rituals for centuries. Later, we return by boat to Copacabana, where there is time to enjoy lunch and a final visit to the lakeside town before continuing by road back to La Paz, once again crossing the Strait of Tiquina. Arrival in La Paz in the late afternoon. (B) (L) (D)

DAY 16 (Friday) LA PAZ - RETURN

After breakfast at the hotel, you will be transferred to the airport for your return flight, bringing to a close an unforgettable journey through Bolivia, Land of Living Cultures. From vibrant markets and colorful festivals to remote highland villages, Bolivia’s culture is alive, present, and resilient, often untouched by modern pressures. As you depart, Bolivia leaves you with a rare gift: the understanding that culture is not only to be observed, but to be experienced, respected, and celebrated wherever it flourishes—whether in bustling cities, hidden valleys, or high plateaus where time seems to stand still.
